Machinarium celebrates its 10th anniversary with an exclusive remix album.

Orbital, 65daysofstatic, Jim Guthrie, C418 and more take on the acclaimed soundtrack

Machinarium Remixed is the title of a 7-track remix album celebrating the 10th anniversary of Amanita Design's robot city adventure. The Prague-based independent studio teams up with 7 different music projects from across the globe to shed new light on Tomas Dvorak's (aka Floex) critically acclaimed soundtrack. The album is coming out on both vinyl and digital on October 16 in collaboration with Minority Records.

Today, Amanita Design are proudly releasing the first single, and it's the one and only Orbital, the British electronic music pioneers who have had a major influence on generations of musicians, including Floex himself, giving a love-ly dance treatment to a fan-favorite track The Glasshouse with Butterfly. It is now available for streaming in all its 8-minute glory, along with a radio edit.

"I played Machinarium when it first came out and it quickly became one of my favourite all-time games, with my favourite game score of all time. In fact simply one of my favourite albums of the last ten years," said Orbital's Paul Hartnoll about discovering Floex's soundtrack. "When Tomas asked if Orbital would like to take part in the project I jumped at the idea knowing full well which piece I wanted to do and how. I was thrilled to find 'The Glasshouse with Butterfly' was ready and waiting for us. This has been one of the most fun remixes we've done for years, and to top it all we asked Tomas to remix an Orbital song in return. He didn't disappoint, he delivered one of our favourite remixes that anyone has ever done for us. What a joyful creative transaction!" he added.

The rest of the line-up consists of some of the most frequently praised artists and music projects within the indie games community such as C418 (Minecraft), 65daysofstatic (No Man's Sky), Jim Guthrie (Superbrothers: Sword & Sworcery EP), Baiyon (PixelJunk Eden), Ed Critchley (Lumino City) or Amanita Design's very own freak-folk duo DVA (Botanicula, CHUCHEL).

The 7-track album is coming to all major digital platforms on October 16th. Collectors and vinyl enthusiasts alike can pre-order the exclusive amber-coloured 180-gram vinyl, strictly limited to 700 hand-numbered copies, later today. The LP comes in a gatefold sleeve with Eva Marková's reimagination of Adolf Lachman's original artwork for the game.

This autumn, Tomas Dvorak aka Floex will be touring the Czech Republic with a brand new show, playing his music for video games live for the first time ever. The main concert will happen on 27th November 2019 at Palác Akropolis, Prague.

Originally released for PC on October 16th, 2009, Machinarium has become a favourite among both the adventure gamers and the casual audience, selling over 5 million copies worldwide.
